

1-on-1 Conversation Guidebook

by

TOKBUD

Find the place where you shine.

What is a 1-on-1 meeting?

They are a great vehicle to help your employees stay connected to their purpose and the meaning of their work in the context of the organisation and team.

Most people enjoy being heard and recognised as an individual and this is where the power of one on ones:

- They keep your employees engaged, and productive
- They build rapport between manager and team
- They demonstrate that the company cares about, and values, their employees

What's the purpose of 1-on-1 meetings?

“Listening”, and “Clarification”. And it's the manager who should do 90% of the listening and 10% of the talking. Everybody needs to be clear on what they're doing, in every aspect of their working life.

One-on-one meetings are the perfect arena for employees to ask direct questions that they may have been embarrassed to ask in a more public setting.

- Get to know direct reports better at a personal level
- Understand and eliminate 'roadblocks'
- Give and receive feedback
- Take a 'pulse check' on how an employee is feeling
- Coach team members to develop them and help their performance
- Connect employees to the company's mission, purpose, and goals
- Get a personal perspective on key projects
- Identify action items through discussion points

What's the purpose of 1-on-1 meetings?

Understand your team member at a personal level

How an employee is feeling

Status update with give and receive feedback

The benefits of 1-on-1 meetings

Build trust

Develop managers' leadership and coaching skills

Improve employee engagement, productivity, and performance

GALLUP®

<https://www.gallup.com/workplace/236927/employee-engagement-drives-growth.aspx>

What are the topics in 1-on-1?

Growth and development

Motivation

Performance

Connection to people and work

Autonomy / Accountability

Company vision, mission, strategy

What NOT to do in a 1-on-1 meeting

Cancel it

Being late

Get distracted by tech

Interrupting

Soften the blow

Without takeaways

Theme Conversation

Well-being

Life

Challenge

Team

Make a commitment

Business

1-on-1 Conversation Guidebook

by

TOKBUD

Find the place where you shine.

